EDITORIAL

Welcome to the Harvest edition!

It's the month of terrifying encounters with giant wheeled and menacing tooth and clawed monsters looming over us on narrow lanes! I've been watching the comings and goings from my local farm (and farming Notes editor) often very late into the evening and know that this is the month when there will be a gentle rumble of combines in the distance and our lane will be strewn with golden straw for a week or two. Hopefully, it will be a decent harvest after the bad start to the season and hopefully we can squeeze a bit more sunshine out of the sky before we have to say goodbye to a summer in which we have been decidedly shortchanged of Vitamin D!

This edition is starting to fatten up with events, which I predict will continue through to December. There are harvest services of thanks taking place across our villages this month along with fun scarecrow festivals and the final smattering of fetes. So, do get out and enjoy the late summer before the jumpers come out of storage again and wellies become standard footwear.

Here's to a month of thanking all our local farmers and a few more sunny days to enjoy our beautiful countryside.

CHURCH NOTES

Imagine you did a survey on the streets of Shipston asking people what the most important thing in their life was. What answer would come out on top? My guess is that by far and away the most popular answer would be 'friends and family.' Most of us, whatever else is going on, look to these close relationships to provide our life with meaning, happiness and fulfilment. This isn't just something that's confined to modern western societies. Throughout history and across cultures friends and family are consistently seen as being one of the most important aspects of what it means to be human. How can we explain this universal experience?

The Bible says that we value relationships because we were made by a God with love at the very heart of his being. Humans were made by God to reflect what he is like and so part of what it means to be human is to love others and be loved in return.

We know, of course, that finding and sustaining such relationships with friends and family can be very hard work. Our lives seem to be increasingly busy; many of us work longer hours giving us less time to invest in our loved ones. In the free time we do have, it's very easy to be distracted by screens and the constant influx of information, rather than engage in the sometimes tiring and messy business of relating deeply with one another.

Starting this October the SW7 group of churches is launching a new Sunday gathering called 'Connect', which will take place once a month between 3.00 -4.00pm. Aimed mainly at families with children from across the benefice but open to all, 'Connect' is a place for the whole family connect with other people and with the God who made us and loves us. It's an informal time with plenty of tea, coffee and cake, as well as crafts and activities for children. The first meeting will take place at 3.00pm on Sunday 13th October at Long Compton Village Hall. Why not take some time out of the busyness of life and join us then?!

You're warmly invited to Connect, but what is it?!

A place for the whole family to connect with people and connect with God in a relaxed and informal atmosphere.

What will it involve?

Lots of tea, coffee and cake! Crafts and games, as well as a short 'thought for the day.'

Where and when will it happen?

The first Connect will be on Sunday 13th October from 3.00-4.00pm at Long Compton village hall. It will then be on Sunday 10th November and then every 2nd Sunday of the month at Long Compton village hall.

Who is running connect?

Connect is being organised by the South Warwickshire 7 group of churches. For more details, please contact Kim Petty kimpetty@btinternet.com or 07949949215 Reverend Ben Dyson

FARMING NOTES

It's started to drizzle with rain and I have just driven the combine down to our ground at the Mill. It's there ready to try our first bit of wheat to cut when the sun comes out.

In the last Farming Notes, I said I had no idea how the oilseed rape would turn out. The answer is not too bad, all things considered. We had around 1 ton per acre. If you exclude all the areas that the prolonged wet of the last winter took out, what was left was really OK. As I've said before, we don't put a lot of inputs into the crop, we use it as a good entry to the next wheat crop. It's also early to harvest and sold as soon as we can dry it. Dan delivers it himself to the grain store at Great Tew. Not knowing how much you are going to get; I wouldn't risk selling it forward on a fixed contract. One thing I do like about rape is that you get paid extra for quality, above the sale price. Ours turned out well above minimum spec, so we got an extra £10.20 per ton for the oil levels in the seed, £8.46/t for low moisture content below base spec and £7.25/t for little or no admixture of other plant seeds in it. On all other grain, we sell anything above minimum spec, and get nothing, if it is below spec, we get deductions – I think this should be addressed in the future as there is no incentive to grow better crops.

I may add that Dan didn't keep back any for seed, so for the next few seasons, we are giving up growing oilseed rape. The fields we had planned for next year's crop were on our heaviest soils, and the risk involved in trying to get another rape crop established didn't seem viable. I was interested to read in The Link that James Walton, next door, is trying borage for the first time and has installed bee hives to help with pollination. James's article was followed by a lot of interesting facts surrounding bees by Chris Paxford, I'd no idea the amount of work bees do to keep their hive together and make the honey we all love.

Dan took a couple of photos while in the combine cab with me, through the windscreen whilst I was cutting some rape on our top fields. I hope they come out. (see front cover) I also found a few photos that a student took of our first Massey 510 Combine in 1968. One shows me emptying barley into a homemade trailer with our first County 4 wheel-drive tractor on the front. The person sat on the side rail is my father, Percy Richardson. In the far distance, are the fields of Rob Harvey at Gottenham Farm. The tractor behind is a Ford 5000 we bought off my future father-in-law. I can remember as a little boy watching my father driving an old Fordson pulling a binder and my grandfather on the seat. I remember the family stacking up the sheaves, with Len Ilsely building and thatching the corn and hay ricks. We had our first combine in 1957, that was a bagger combine, not like today's grain, handled in bulk. I used to ride on the bagging platform and, as I got older, taking off and tying up the bags. When I got into my early teens, I'd go off with a contractor bagging sacks on his combine all around the area where we lived. I must admit, I look forward to harvest and driving a combine with the comfort of a sound-proof cab and air conditioning, a lot different to the early days of heat, dust and areas of flat corn, often full of grass and weeds.

In my father's time, we still had what we call a sack dryer, which was a lot of hard work carrying sacks on and off it as each batch of 35 sacks got dry. It was suitable to dry special seed crops. He made quite a lot of useful money drying clover, kale, and grass seeds etc., at so-much a ton. We also had our own seed cleaner and dresser, with which he would clean all the above, often very valuable seed crops, weigh them up into new sacks and load up onto haulier's wagons. It often entailed moving one batch off and another on in the middle of the night. The manual work then was very hard compared to farm work now.

By next months' article, we hope to have finished harvest and begun drilling next year's crops. I will be able to tell you how well it has gone overall, in return for a year's hard work.

John 'Tufty' Richardson

GARDENING NOTES

Editors: Margaret Welsh and Miranda Arnold

September has been described as the "Mellow Month" in the garden both in terms of the weather and the fact that most of the hard work is over and you can reap the rewards of your labour. Dahlias, Crocosmias and Rudbeckias are some of the plants in bloom at this time. Vegetable growers often have a glut of produce, including courgettes, squashes and sweetcorn. The latter is ripe when the tassels or beards turn brown. We may experience an Indian summer but equally there may be the first autumn frost so be prepared to fleece vulnerable plants outdoors and fruit or vegetables e.g. cucumbers in the greenhouse.

All your potatoes should be lifted by the end of the month before they get eaten by slugs. Leave them to dry out before storage in hessian or stout paper bags to keep them in the dark. Collect ripe apples and store unblemished ones in a cool, dry place. Pears can be kept in the fridge even until November. Spinach and other greens such as rocket, lambs' lettuce and pak choi can be directly sown now and onion sets planted ready for harvesting in June or July.

Hardy annual flowers may also be sown e.g. nigella, calendula and iberis (candytuft). As the soil will still be warm, they will grow and strengthen before the winter sets in and should flower earlier than those sown in the spring. You can also start planting spring flowering bulbs such as daffodils and other narcissi. It is worth tidying areas where spring bulbs grow to avoid trampling on them as they emerge later. Look out for self- seeded biennials e.g. foxgloves and move them to where they will be seen to advantage, Herbaceous perennials that have finished flowering can be lifted, divided and replanted keeping the strong, healthy growth. This should improve their flowering. As the weather cools, container grown trees, shrubs and climbers can be planted out into the garden. They should establish well while the soil is still warm but do water regularly.

Make sure that flowering perennials such as asters, Michaelmas daisies and Japanese anemones are well supported. Climbing roses can be pruned now. Cut back side shoots to 3 buds and tie in the main stems to supports.

In preparation for the winter rain, lawns will benefit from scarification to remove dead grass and moss and from aeration with a fork. Any bare patches can be repaired by seeding or by laying new turf. Water the ground during dry weather and protect seeded areas from the birds.

Perennials grown in containers may be given potash feed to help them survive the winter but do not give general feed as this will encourage new growth which is more susceptible to the cold. Allow container grown plants such as lilies and Agapanthus which need good drainage to dry out. Cut down on watering, stop feeding and place them in a non-heated greenhouse or in a sheltered area by the house. Pots of lilies may even be placed on their sides to prevent the rain getting into the crown. If the weather is cold or frost is forecast, bring pelargoniums or fuchsias into the greenhouse.

In September you are starting to prepare for winter but there is still much to enjoy in the garden.

Margaret Welsh

NATURE NOTES

Editor: David Sewell

Firstly, for the sharp-eyed among you it won't have escaped your notice that last month's notes on swifts were accompanied by a lovely image of an alpine swift rather than our common swift. These distinctive birds are a very rare spring visitor from Europe, they don't breed in Cherington! If anybody does see a large swift with a white belly locally, please do let me know.

Last week I found myself sitting in the departure lounge of Lands End airport watching the safety video and idly wondering if it was actually possible to fiddle about with a life jacket and then get out of the plane should it land on the sea. Either way, after one slightly hair-raising aborted take-off due to a 'fat seagull' that refused to get off the runway (pilot's description) we were eventually airborne and just as guickly descending onto the short runway on St Marys.

For the wildlife enthusiast Scilly is a bit special. A beautiful archipelago of lowlying islands some 30 miles out from mainland Cornwall, it has a temperate climate that enables palm trees and stick insects to thrive. More Importantly, its geographical location on the very edge of the British Isles makes it a superb place to hunt for rare birds that have overshot their migration routes; the chance of something unexpected is what draws me back there.

I wasn't to be disappointed. Once off the plane I turned my phone on and up pinged a message on the Scilly Isles birding WhatsApp group. 'American cliff swallow at Porthellick beach.' With those few words I knew where I was going after dropping the bags off. Cliff swallows are super rare, what birders call a 'mega' or, if you want to delve even deeper into the murky world of twitching parlance, 'a crippler.' Casting my mind back I reckoned this was probably only the 13th record ever for Britain, ironically one that I'd already seen 25 years ago in Hampshire, but that didn't matter, the old Scilly magic was weaving its spells again, and I set off to look for it.

Arriving at Porthellick beach I was faced with several hundred swallows wheeling in and around the beach, over the bay and amongst the adjacent pine trees. The sort of flocks that we're all used to as they gather ahead of moving out for the winter, fast moving and unsettled. I knew it would be amongst these somewhere but the sheer volume of birds, the speed at which they were circling and the bright sunshine blowing out any details on the birds was making it a real challenge to see anything, let alone pick out a single bird. A strategy was required. Cliff swallows don't have the forked tail that our common swallows have, and I couldn't see any house martins in this flock. So, I started looking for the outline of a bird without a forked tail. It worked and after 30 minutes I was picking up the cliff swallow as it torpedoed past. A beautiful hirundine with a pale reddish rump, nape and chin and a distinctive creamy forehead. Fabulous!

My daily walks around Scilly were punctuated by hundreds of butterflies. Commas, speckled woods, red admirals, common blues...they were everywhere. Unlike here. It's been hard not to notice the dearth of these dainty creatures locally. Readers with long memories will recall my goal was to see a purple emperor in Whichford woods this year and I tried, I really did. I researched the very best time to see them, the best time of day, the best temperatures, where they would be in the rides, how far up, which trees were best, but to no avail. Several visits resulted in a couple of meadow browns and a comma. It looks like the cold and wet spring has had far reaching effects on our lepidoptera populations. Fingers firmly crossed that next year is better.

Acorns School News

Sports Day

A fantastic afternoon at Long Compton Recreation Ground was had by all children in July. The field events, consisting of long jump, javelin and speed bounce were a real success and children shone with their abilities and courage. Racing down the track was a highlight for all with sprint races, egg and spoon, sack and house relays. Kingstree lifted the trophy high for 2024, with Hidcote in second place and Whichford in 3rd place.

Well done to all the children for their determination and a huge thank you to Shaun Kench and all the helpers who enabled this event to take place. It is fantastic to be able to use the Recreation Ground instead of our Orchard as it allows children to challenge themselves with events such as javelin and longer distances for running.

Shipston Proms Primary Concert

This year, lots of children from Acorns performed in the Primary School Proms where talented young musicians from across The Stour Federation schools came to perform in front of a packed audience. We were treated to bin drumming, guitar and piano recitals, brass ensembles as well as a choir performance involving the whole audience.

Many thanks to the children who entertained us so wonderfully, to Charlotte Haines (Chair of Shipston Proms) for their support and to Mrs. Roberts for her work coordinating the event.

Active Travel Day

At the end of term, we held our Active Travel Day. This special day was organised by Acorns School Council as part of their work this year on sustainability.

With support from the Warwickshire Safe and Active Travel team, the children had a wonderful day filled with lots of exciting and educational events, including: a scooter safety assembly for Little Acorns and Class 1, cycle safety workshops for Class 2 and Class 3 and a bling your bike session for each class. The children also had the opportunity to ride their bikes and scooters around a designated track.

To finish off a brilliant morning with our visitors from Warwickshire

County Council, we were presented with a Silver Level Safe and Active Schools Award in recognition of all of our work this year on road safety and active travel across the whole school.

Class of 2024

Class 3's production of 'I'm an 11-Year-Old, Get Me Out of Here!' was a roaring success, with audience participation and belly laughs from all around! Huge congratulations to the children - they really did themselves proud - certainly, some budding actors and actresses! Thanks must go to Miss Taher for coordinating and directing; Mrs. Gardiner for her support with props and costumes; Mrs. Hampton for choreographing the dances, and Mrs. Daymond for supporting children and prompting when necessary.

Good luck to all our Year 6 Leavers; we wish you all the success and happiness you deserve at high school.

Olympics

For our whole school themed project this year, we held a book and Olympics fortnight, which the children have thoroughly enjoyed. An opening ceremony started our celebrations with sports captains leading a procession, carrying our own Acorns Olympic torch, followed by year groups waving their world country flags. Children then learnt some interesting facts about the Olympics in a whole school assembly, before returning to their classes to begin their Olympic studies. A thoroughly enjoyable final two weeks which will have hopefully motivated the children prior to this year's Olympic Games in Paris.

Brailes School News

Sports Day

On 2nd July, all of the children enjoyed running, jumping and throwing as far and as fast as they could, competing to earn points for their houses. There was super teamwork shown by everyone. Luckily, the weather was kind to us, and we enjoyed sunny days allowing everyone to really shine. Thank you to all the families who joined us to cheer the children on and Mr. Hibberd and Year 6 Leaders for organising and leading this year's sports day.

Congratulations to Gillets team who are the sports day winning team this year, finishing just one point ahead of Bishop.

FOBS Tesco Community Vote

FOBS are currently (until September) a voting option at the Shipston Tesco Store. A blue token (or several!) can be given for every purchase made and this token can be put into our voting slot (located near the tills). 1st Prize in the vote wins £1500, which school can use towards some much-needed forest school equipment. Please help spread the word and remember us during the holidays!

Olympics

Our Olympic Celebration was a wonderful way to end a fantastic year of learning. We have enjoyed reading our special Olympic books to find out all about the world's largest sporting competition.

As part of the classes learning about the Olympic Games, reception children visited Feldon Valley to experience playing golf! Rabbits class have been learning about rhythmic gymnastics and have enjoyed creating their own ribbon routines in the hall and outside at playtime.

In English lessons, Rabbits children collaborated to write and perform poems about the Paris Olympics, which they shared with the whole school, along with the fabulous Olympic torches, in our own version of the Games closing ceremony during the last week of term. The Olympic theme has continued into maths, looking at medal counts and investigating different combinations of bronze, silver and gold medals.

Owls class really enjoyed the Olympic focus on the history of the Games and its events. Children tried their hand at writing some engaging nonchronological reports about events that they were most interested in, presenting some discontinued events at our closing ceremony.

In the final few days of term, Badgers Class transformed into 'Badgers Sport Production Company' and in only three days, created a TV show all about the Olympics. Children organised themselves into groups, researched their chosen area, wrote a script, created props and performed their presentation to the school with energy and enthusiasm! It was great fun, and we definitely have some budding TV presenters in our midst!

It was a pleasure to meet and talk about 'Old Filth' by Jane Gardham, a prolific novelist with many awards to her name.

'Old Filth' refers to barrister Edward Feathers. Filth refers to his career; 'failed in London, try Hong Kong.' His is a sadly typical background. As a child of 'the Raj' he was sent 'home' as a small boy, away from parents and familiar surroundings in Malaya to bleak, cold and violent 'care' in Wales. The story of his eventual survival into early middle-age and his subsequent marriage to the redoubtable Betty is told here with most wonderful dialogue, descriptions and exceptional characters, such that the reader is drawn in completely. This is a feast for those who enjoyed the book, as it is part of a trilogy, which we agreed we might explore in a further choice for the book group.

Obituary: Jane Holder

Jane Holder was born at the family farmhouse in Long Compton, in March 1930. Three years later, she and her parents moved to a farm near Bourton-on-the-Hill.

Life was tough in the years leading up to and during World War II. Jane, her younger sister Carol, and their mother were involved in farm and gardening tasks. Jane learnt to milk cows drive a tractor and cut grass with a scythe. She kept hens and geese, selling the eggs for pocket money and learnt to make her own clothes.

Jane attended half a dozen different schools, as well as being home tutored by a refugee academic from Czechoslovakia. She didn't like boarding school and was happier at home.

In her early 20s, Jane went to London for secretarial training, but soon had to come home to help her father as her mother was seriously ill. She worked the farm alongside her father throughout her mother's illness and after her death, as well as running the house and garden and supporting her sister.

When her father remarried, she moved to Charlton Abbotts, near Andoversford, where she worked as estate secretary. Here, Jane created the first garden she could call her own. She invested in a greenhouse and started growing flowers and vegetables from seed, as well as acquiring cuttings and plants from friends and relatives. Her garden in Burmington contained many of these. She also built a grass tennis court. In spare time she entertained her niece and nephew and played bridge.

It was here that she decided to address the gaps in her education, going to evening classes and ending up with a clutch of O and A levels.

In the late 1970'she left Charlton Abbotts for Oxford where she worked for a firm of estate agents, becoming increasingly involved in letting properties, something she much enjoyed.

She bought a house in a nearby village, acquired another greenhouse, created her second garden and becoming a pillar of the village gardening club.

When she retired, she moved to Burmington, where she spent some of the happiest years of her life.

Sarah Russell (Jane's niece)

Jane Holder's Life in Burmington

Jane was an incredible person with so many skills and talents. One of my earlier memories of her, when she moved to Burmington was of her laying her own concrete steps – at quite an advanced age.

Her knowledge and love of plants proved to be a valuable benefit not only to me, when she and her sister Carole worked on the Shipston Home Nursing Plant Sale but also to Burmington church and village more widely. Jane was consistently generous in encouraging villagers and flower arrangers to pick from her garden.

It was Jane who masterminded the wildflower meadow in the Manor Memorial Ground, years ahead of the time it became a fashionable thing to do and the meadow is a living memorial to Jane's service to our church. It's also very fitting that she will be buried in the Memorial Ground. She also advised on the shrubs in the churchyard for their suitability for flower arranging. For a time, she took on the responsibility for managing the churchyard, often mowing it herself at a considerable age.

Jane's commitment to Burmington was evident in the many years that she served as Treasurer to the Parochial Church Council. She contributed significantly as Sacristan and as a member of the PCC, frequently having very strong opinions about the ways in which things should be done! She also regularly cooked for the CAMEO lunch club.

Jane was a wonderful presence in the village and enriched the lives of her friends and neighbours with her generosity and friendship. She will be much missed.

Harvest Festival

Our Harvest Festival celebration in the church will be held at the end of the month. As I write, the harvest was in full swing and hopefully those with vegetable patches are picking the fruits of their labours.

The flower team will be decorating the church ahead of the service. However, I would be grateful for donations of produce or store cupboard items to add to the display. Everything donated will be taken to a local food bank afterwards.

It is especially lovely if the children of our villages (parents please help) are able to bring something for the service. A basket of apples/pears perhaps, or a posy of flowers. These can be brought on the day, or between 10am and 12pm on Saturday 28th, when I will be at the church to receive them.

From personal experience, I know what hard work it takes to run the show. Garden Club Visit Report

On August 8th, thirty-three Garden Club members visited the garden of Colebrook House in Blockley.

We were met by the Head Gardener Glyn Jones and his apprentice Grace. Glyn explained that the site of the garden was once a silk mill. The present owners had redeveloped the 3-acre garden over the last 5 years. This has included putting in hard landscaping. A broad terrace links the newly formed walled garden to the pool terrace and croquet lawn. The garden slopes down to the Blockley Brook. Glyn told us about an exciting new project which involves the development of the walled garden area. A large greenhouse is to be erected, the plants will be dug up and transplanted throughout the garden and new raised beds built which will be planted to represent different regions

e.g. Mediterranean, South American, arid zones etc.

The walled garden has 3 main raised beds surrounded by lonicera and lavender hedges. The top bed was for cutting flowers for the house and contained a beautiful planting of pastel-coloured sweet peas, nicotiana and antirrhinums and dahlias. The second bed of herbaceous perennials included phlox, scabious and monarda and finally there was a lovely bed of roses inter planted with cleomes.

Below this was a propagation area where, with the owners help, up to 8,000 plants are raised each year. At a lower level in the garden 3 to 4 tons of compost is produced per year and in addition about 10 tons is brought in. Glyn proudly told us that his compost reaches a temperature of 74 degrees which will kill weed seeds. The owner keeps hens which also produce waste to help fertilise the garden. The grounds are irrigated by water from the brook.

We were told what was looking particularly good and left to wander freely around the garden. In the main border by the terrace there was a lovely display of hydrangeas, hollyhocks, crocosmias, rudbeckias and roses. On the terrace there were large planters with more roses and agapanthus. Continuing down to the brook we crossed a bridge festooned with wisteria and followed a winding path through a wildflower area. At the top of the bank there was a seat which gave a lovely view to the SE. The pool area was planted with cherries and planters contained lilies and white perennials. A spectacular vine covered a changing area by the pool.

We thoroughly enjoyed our 2-hour tour of the garden and we finished the morning by having a delicious lunch at the Blockley Cafe. We hope to visit the garden again when it is open in the spring for the NGS and has, we are told, a lovely display of bulbs. However, this may have to wait for a year due to the redevelopment of the walled garden.

Proposed Neighbourhood Plan

The Wolfords Joint Parish Council is looking into the possibility of producing a Neighbourhood Plan (NP) to cover both Great and Little Wolford. When finalised a NP is a legal document that is considered along with other planning guidelines by the District Council when any planning applications are made. We are hoping we may be able to join with other adjacent parishes such as Barton on the Heath so as to cover a larger area and reduce costs. We believe there are grants available to help with these.

Residents in Great Wolford will remember we produced a Village Design Statement 2019 and also undertook a Housing Needs Survey (HNS) in 2020. A NP will build on the information we already have although we are expecting to have to produce a more up to date HNS to cover both Wolfords and any interested villages. The hoped for Dark Sky designation would also be included.

The WJPCS is hoping to set up a working group to produce the NP so we are looking for any volunteers who would be willing to put aside some time to help, especially if you have any professional expertise which might be of use. We have been advised that new guidelines for NPs are currently being drawn up and we should wait until these are available although it would be useful to have expressions of interest before then.

A NP should give a brief history and character of the area, a vision statement for the villages and our strategic objectives. It will also need to cover current and future employment, our local environment including important landscapes and green spaces, local water courses, light and noise and air pollution. It will also need to define the current built up area how to meet any future housing needs, preservation of heritage assets and the conversion and re use of buildings. Limitations of the current infrastructure such as water, wastewater and flood risk as well as connectivity generally. Are our local amenities adequate and how could they be improved? These are some suggestions of what we would hope our NP would cover but this is very much a community exercise and other suggestions may come forward.

If you would like to take part please contact either the Parish Clerk clerk@thewolfordsjpc.co.uk or the Chair chair@thewolfordsjpc.co.uk

For the takeaways

Due to the success of our previous takeaways, we will be offering a takeaway service between 6.00pm and 6.45pm

Here's how it works; we need at least 50 orders to make the van's visit viable so now is the time to express an interest in either the Bingo or a takeaway by emailing Ann McKenna (see details below) with the number of meals you would like. Cost for the takeaway is £11.00 per portion

Cut-off date for pre-ordering is Saturday 12th October and to keep the delivery on the night quick and efficient we're asking for payment to be made in advance when we confirm your order. And of course, you don't need to be a Wolford resident to join in the takeaway – if you can come and collect then you're very welcome to place an order.

Once we have 50 orders confirmed we can take further orders up to 25th October

To order please contact: Ann McKenna (email: annmckenna3@sky.com) (Tel: 01608 674009)

Please help us to maintain the church and churchyard at the centre of our village.

The Fox and Hounds Pub Planning Committee Meeting

It has been a cause of great sadness that The Wolfords have been deprived of their pub, The Fox and Hounds, since it was closed in 2016. On 14th August, the Stratford planning Committee met to discuss the last (we hope) in a long series of planning application by the owners for change of use into a 6-bedroom house. Supporters of the pub turned out in force, there must have been around 60, and listened to arguments for an hour and a half – nail biting tension, interrupted by outbreaks of applause when they strongly agreed with a point made in support of retaining the pub. At the final vote, an overwhelming majority voted against the planners' recommendation that change of use was granted (there was only a single hand raised in favour). Greatly relieved, the crowd crossed the road for a celebratory drink before returning home.

Two of the more compelling reasons for retaining the pub were that there have been two recent offers to buy it at a realistic price, and the recent Advice Note passed unanimously by the Council, which recommends stronger protection for pubs. The latter was proposed by our Councillor Sarah Whalley-Hoggins who has lent unwavering support in the campaign to save the pub.

Huge thanks to everyone who came to support as there is no doubt this has an impact on the committee members to see the overwhelming desire to have pub reopened again for the local communities.

Dark Sky Area

The Wolfords Joint Parish Council is looking to clarify the current situation on Dark Skys in this area.

The principle behind Dark Sky Status is to ensure that artificial light does not obscure the ability to view the night sky. This does not mean banning outside light, just ensuring that it is appropriate and downward facing.

The current parish council and the previous Great Wolford Parish Council have always tried to ensure that this principle is incorporated into any planning applications that it comments on.A Parish Dark Sky area may be incorporated into documents such as a Neighbourhood Plan and is already included in the Village Design Statement 2019 for Great Wolford.

The Parish Council is looking to update our status so that it covers both Great and Little Wolford and this may mean that in future there would be registered locations in both villages which meet the criteria for viewing dark skies. Suggested sites are the churchyard in Great Wolford and the Green or Village Hall in Little Wolford. Currently, Long Compton is registered as a 'Milky Way Site', the highest classification and it would seem likely that the Wolfords could receive a similar classification. If enough of the local parishes get involved with Dark Sky Status this area could become a Dark Sky reserve. If any of our neighbouring parishes are interested in joining with us please contact our clerk at clerk@wolfordsjpc.co.uk

"I knew, through my work as a nurse at a local Hospital, of your good reputation and responsiveness before you started caring for my mum. However, it was only when she needed your help that I realised quite how good you are. It's been quite reassuring knowing that mum had been safe at home with your carers. I know that she is also grateful for the stability this has provided. Without your support, my mum wouldn't have been able to stay in her home for so long - and the way you have been able to increase care rapidly when she needed it helped with this." Philip Vial.
